FIRST ENCOUNTERS 250

A talk by Dr Hirini Kaa on the enduring impact of European settlement on Māori following the arrival of James Cook. This is an opportunity to share, debate and reflect – to enable a more balanced telling of our stories, so that we speak openly and respectfully about our history. Dr Hirini Kaa is of Ngati Porou, Ngati Kahungunu and Rongowhakaata descent. Hirini has worked in a range of areas including in the social services sector, for the Anglican Church and for his iwi, and continues his various roles in the Anglican Church. Hirini has extensive television experience including presenting, researching and co-writing the seven part historical documentary series 'The Prophets' for Maori Television, which explored Māori prophetic movements from an Anglican perspective.
